Dear Deborah

Yours of 1st recd.

I should be glad to have the vice returned as soon as you have sufficiently examined it. I can't take much time to do that. I can hardly realize the meanness of the man. What could he have been thinking

I will write to Perry in a day or two about. I have been ~~rather~~ miserable for three days & nights. great pain & a bad attack

of the bladder. & but friends & structures ever succeed the chest. I think now you more will bring me to the end of my string.

our house seems quite deserted now

a soul besides our own family has entered
As I hope is requiring again to keep it ^{very} secret I would be to be careful or she would have a knife put into her
before she knew it
which has scared
her. I see Lincoln has you to put money
to meet the Rebel Commissioners. I hope
he won't commit

any clam pulled, now we have just got to the Rebs' wheel their hair is short.

It is not
strange that Elisth Vanderweyer has never written a line to me.

I suppose you saw the notice of S^r W^r in the Daily Advertiser

Yours sincerely
